In spite of the excitement and uncertainty incident to the political condition of the country, there is a slight improvement in some lines of business. There is an improvement in the price of cotton, which has advanced one cent, and wheat has advanced quite rapidly of late. Meanwhile silver, the one thing necessary for happiness with the popocrats, has fallen in price. Several manufacturers in New England are starting up and there are hopes that they may be able to run during the winter. There is a small increase in the price of farm products.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The annual meeting of the Orleans County Sunday School Convention was held in Grace M. E. church, October 1 and 2. Owing to the fact that Brighton is so far removed from the center of the district, and also to the unfavorable weather, the representation from the churches was not so large as it otherwise would have been, but the meetings were much enjoyed, both for their spirituality and practical help. Space will permit us simply to call attention to a few of the prominent features of the convention. A very spiritual service of song and prayer and the transacting of necessary business took up the forenoon, and the convention really began Thursday p. m. with the address of welcome by Porter H. Dale, which was most hearty and eloquent. He compared the meeting of those connected with Sunday school work to the pleasure of meeting at our firesides, friends of past days associated, as the school is, to memories of youth. He considered the Sunday school as auxiliary to the church as the greatest organization on the face of the earth, the Bible as the book of all books in which is bound all that is best in literature and poetry, and welcomed the delegates above all else because of the memories of that book. To this welcome Mr. D. M. Camp of Newport responded. Then followed a discussion of the question, "Who should be in the Sunday School?" opened by Bro. Blake of the Barton Monitor, who asserted that everyone should between the ages of 5 and 90, though "the world doesn't seem to think so," for it is a strange fact that people are least interested in matters most important. He wanted the children brought in early, the boys and girls kept in, the old not neglected, closing with a touching allusion to the saddest of all wrecks, that of a vessel just outside the harbor on the homeward voyage. After interesting discussions of this subject and those immediately following, Mr. Camp gave the history, and so far as known the results of the recent canvass which was made with the view of bringing Orleans county into line with the rest of the counties and thus make Vermont a banner Sunday School State, all its counties canvassed and organized. The report showed 63 per cent of children and youth from 5 to 20 in the Sunday School with 39 per cent of the adult population who do not attend church at all. Mr. Camp expressed himself as gratified with the hearty response made by superintendents, schools and pastors with but few exceptions to his call for the canvass in behalf of the County Union. The convention in its turn expressed itself as entirely satisfied with Mr. Camp's efforts and highly commended his efficient work.

As we expected the address Thursday evening by Rev. F. N. Peloubet, D. D., of Boston called out a very large audience. He took for his theme, "With our faces toward the dawn," and emphasized the importance of finding the brightness in all conditions, of looking for the bright features in place of the dark ones in all reports of work attempted and accomplished. Among the signs of the approaching dawn of better things in Sunday school work he called attention to the changed attitude of the church toward the school and especially toward the children. While the cathedrals of the past were designed especially for the old folks the modern churches are built with the thought of suitable rooms for the children. Another sign of advancement toward the dawn is the seeking of better training for the teachers and consequently better methods of instruction, which will be brought about largely by means of Normal classes and teachers' meetings. His apt illustrations, bright stories and familiar conversational method combined to make the address a most enjoyable treat as well as incentive to thought.

Friday was given up largely to practical discussions on methods of work, all of which were very helpful. Perhaps the best of these discussions was that on "How to increase the number of Bible students," very brightly opened by Mrs. C. W. Tenney of Barton, who emphasized the need of prayer and persistent personal efforts as prime factors in successful work. The convention adjourned at 3.50 Friday afternoon, the chairman summarizing the leading thoughts brought forth, as the need of a house to house visitation, Normal classes and home departments connected with each Sunday school.

The officers for the ensuing year are: President, C. F. Ranney, Newport; secretary-treasurer, John R. Akin, Newport; executive committee, Geo. H. Flint, Newport, W. W. Foster, Barton Landing, W. T. Kilburn, Derby.

The following persons were elected as delegates to the State convention held in Burlington: Mr. S. D. Hobson, Island Pond, Rev. J. C. Langford, Coventry, Rev. W. E. Douglass, Rarion, Rev. John Vance, Newport Center, Mr. C. E. Ranney, Newport.

Resolutions were adopted expressing satisfaction with the results of the county canvass and pledging a hearty support of the remaining work, recommending the observance of a midsummer rally by each town organization, and rally Sunday in September; a method of gaining uniform statistics; and a hearty recognition of the hospitality of the people of Island Pond.

The topic on intermediate work was presented in a very practical manner by Miss Richards, of Newport, this was followed by a general discussion and the singing of the doxology brought to a close one of the most practical and helpful conventions held in many years.—Essex Co. Herald.

To within a short time the Bryanites have fenced in New England, New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania, and claimed all the rest of the country as sure for the Populist ticket. Now the news comes that they have withdrawn their speakers from the state of Ohio and given up that territory to the "enemy"; also that Altgeld admits that his election in Illinois is uncertain, and that the Democratic national committee concedes Indiana to be doubtful. Bryan himself has given up the conversion of the "enemy's country" and is soon to retire beyond the Mississippi. It is apparent to even the Popocratic campaign managers that Bryan's traveling circus is not making votes for the ticket; that the spell which at one time seemed to enchant the country in favor of repudiation is now broken. The high water mark of the free silver movement was reached just after the Chicago convention, and, from that time to this, the campaign of education has been making votes for the Republican ticket. When Mr. Bryan retired beyond the Alleghenies he began his retreat, which will not stop until his overwhelming rout takes place Nov. 3.

Coming from the very highest authority, as it does, gives it the greatest weight, and people know when they see a good thing like this. His successful system of treating patients through letter correspondence is attracting great attention. All you have got to do is this. Write him a letter about your complaint, tell him how you feel, and he will answer it, giving a thorough explanation of your case and telling the surest way to get well.

He gives most careful and explicit attention to every letter and explains your case so comprehensively, that you understand immediately exactly what ails you, and just what to do for yourself. And for all this he makes no charge. He is the discoverer of that remarkable medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervuna blood and nerve remedy. This splendid offer is being taken advantage of by thousands, and they are getting well by his wonderful treatment. The very best thing you can do, reader, is to write the Doctor immediately; it will cost you nothing, and it will surely be the means of making you well and strong.
